GSLL 282. Afropessimism in American and European Film. 3 Credits.
Scholars of Afropessimism argue that we are not living in the age of post-slavery, but in the “afterlife of slavery” and that Blacks exist outside of the world, because the social world is held together by anti-Blackness.
This argumentation has had important effects within Black German and Black European Studies. This course seeks to explore these philosophical claims, by comparing American films with European films that deal with anti-Black racism.

GSLL 286. The Upright and the Toppled: Public Lives of Monuments in Europe and the American South. 3 Credits.
Recent years have seen a worldwide push for emancipatory acts of iconoclasm: calls to “topple” monuments as emblems of social oppression. This course examines cases of contested and demolished monuments in contexts close to home (the Carolina campus) and geographically remote (Poland, Prague). If demolishing a monument can be a violent act, how might visual objects in public space exert their own forces of violence? Readings and discussions in English.
