A critical examination of models of political inquiry. Empirical (naturalist), interpretive, and critical metatheories are considered in terms of each model's ontological, epistemological, and practical/political consequences and presuppositions.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 783. Probability and Statistics. 4 Credits.

Introduction to probability theory and basic principles of statistical inference, including estimation and tests of hypotheses; basic programming in R.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 784. Regression Models. 4 Credits.

Introduction to linear and nonlinear regression models for continuous and categorical data. Topics include ordinary least squares estimation, maximum likelihood estimation, casual inference for observational studies, graphical model interpretation techniques, and data analysis in R.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 786. Time Series Analysis of Political Data. 3 Credits.

Discusses the problems that arise when regression methodologies are applied to time series and pooled time series data.

Requisites: Prerequisite, POLI 784; permission of the instructor for students lacking the prerequisite.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 787. Advanced Topics in Political Data Science. 3 Credits.

Survey of important contemporary trends in advanced data analysis. Likely topics include multilevel models, measurement models, machine learning, modeling dependence, and advanced computation in R.

Requisites: Prerequisites, POLI 783 and 784.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 788. Statistics and Data Analysis for Political Science and Policy Research. 3 Credits.

This course focuses on the application of statistical analysis to quantitative data in order to study theoretically and substantively interesting questions about politics and policy.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 789. Game Theory. 3 Credits.

This class provides graduate students with an introduction to game theoretic modeling, focusing on noncooperative game theory. Topics covered include normal form games, extensive-form games, and games of incomplete information.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 790. Positive Political Theory. 3 Credits.

This seminar surveys applications of rational choice models across the subfields of political science. It also considers critiques of national choice approaches and alternative theoretical approaches to modeling human behavior.

Grading status: Letter grade.

This course is designed to enhance students' understanding of trans-Atlantic studies through lectures from and discussion with experts in the field.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 883. Introduction to Bayesian Modeling for Political & Social Research. 3 Credits.

Introduction to Bayesian modeling and data analysis. The course focuses on basic Bayesian and MCMC theory, as well as applications in the context of common regression and measurement models, including multilevel (generalized) linear models, mixture models, item-response theory models and models for text classification. Basic knowledge of mathematical statistics is desirable, and working knowledge of both the R programming language and the maximum likelihood estimation framework is required.

Requisites: Prerequisite, POLI 784.

Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 3 total credits. 2 total completions.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 888. Applying Data Analysis to Transatlantic Studies. 3 Credits.

This course is designed to get students to expand multivariate data analysis skills and to think critically about the presentation of information in professional settings and the media. A key goal is to give participants the confidence to critically evaluate whether the presentation of data is professionally sound. Another central goal is to expand skills in multivariate analysis by engaging in a semester-long research project that culminates in a publication quality paper.

Requisites: Prerequisite, POLI 788.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 890. Directed Readings in Political Science. 1-21 Credits.

Permission of the department. Directed readings in a special field under the direction of a member of the graduate faculty.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 891. Special Topics in Political Science. 1-3 Credits.

Permission of the instructor. Seminar in selected areas of political science. Topics vary from year to year. May be repeated for credit.

Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit; may be repeated in the same term for different topics.

Grading status: Letter grade.

POLI 993. Master's Research and Thesis. 3 Credits.

POLI 994. Doctoral Research and Dissertation. 3 Credits.
