Sharon Holland, Chair
Seth Ketch, Director of Graduate Studies
Patricia Sawin, Coordinator of the Folklore Program

The Department of American Studies offers a Ph.D. in American studies and an M.A. in folklore as well as a graduate minor in either American studies or folklore for students pursuing a graduate degree in other departments.

Ph.D. in American Studies

The Ph.D. degree in American studies provides rigorous training in interdisciplinary methods dedicated to the understanding of the complex cultures and history of the United States and its place in the world. Program graduates will be prepared both to teach at the college and university levels in American studies and related fields, including Southern studies, American Indian studies, literature, history, art history, cultural studies, and folklore, and to pursue professional opportunities in museums, historical sites, archives, or related fields requiring interdisciplinary perspectives and methodologies.

Admission

Students will be admitted to the Ph.D. in American studies from a range of academic programs, some with an undergraduate degree, some with a master’s degree in American studies or another relevant discipline. Candidates for admission should be firmly grounded in the humanities, social sciences, or the arts. The best qualified students should articulate an interest in American history, literary, expressive and/or material culture, and/or critical theory; should show some familiarity with library, web-based, and/or ethnographic research methods; and should offer a specific rationale for their interest in the UNC–Chapel Hill graduate program. In addition to The Graduate School application form, candidates for admission will present one or two writing samples, a statement of purpose, three letters of recommendation, official transcripts, GRE aptitude scores, and a curriculum vitae. Transfer credits may be awarded at the department’s discretion on the basis of course equivalencies.

Applications will be accepted in December for matriculation the following August. Consult the website of The Graduate School (http://gradschool.unc.edu/admissions/) for details, specific deadlines, and a link to the online application system.

The Department of American Studies also offers a Ph.D. in American studies; however, admission to the M.A. in folklore does not constitute admission to the Ph.D. in American studies.

Ph.D. in American Studies

The Ph.D. program in American studies balances flexibility and a focus on students’ own areas of interest with requirements designed to insure knowledge of key issues and texts in the interdisciplinary study of American culture. Ph.D. students must complete 20 courses (60 hours). Those who enter the program with an M.A. may count up to 9 hours of previous study toward the degree. Four specific courses—AMST 700, AMST 701, and AMST 902 and AMST 903—are required. Students generally take six other courses offered by American Studies core faculty and the remainder of their courses in a variety of associated graduate programs, including English, history, music, and religious studies. Those who enter the program with a B.A. degree must undertake the M.A. Research Seminar (AMST 901) and the Capstone Project (AMST 992). Students pursuing the Ph.D. take comprehensive exams in three areas of specialization, developed in consultation with their advisors, and complete a dissertation. They are also expected to participate actively in the departmental colloquium.

Students who join the department with a master’s degree can usually expect to spend one fewer year on coursework than those who enter with an undergraduate degree, although students admitted with a master’s degree in a field other than American studies may need to take some additional courses as they progress toward the American studies Ph.D. The graduate studies committee will make the determination on an individual basis. Students who enter with an undergraduate degree earn the M.A. at the end of their second year, upon completion and defense of the capstone project, before proceeding to preparation for comprehensive examinations and the dissertation.

Research Proficiency Certification

Each Ph.D. candidate is expected, as a condition of advancing to candidacy, to select and develop an individualized proficiency that will improve the quality and impact of their research and enhance the capacity they will wield in their professional lives. This empowers students to add value to their education by defining and pursuing an enabling skill set that can deepen the dimensions of their research, practice, and service.

Examples of useful proficiencies might include:

- the study of a relevant language other than English, including Cherokee, offered in our department;
- ethnographic field work;
- oral history interview and recording techniques;
- digital modes of coding, mapping, and visualization;
- training in the processes of public planning and policy;
- facility in survey methods and quantitative analysis;
- training in web-based, and/or ethnographic research methods; and should offer a specific rationale for their interest in the UNC–Chapel Hill graduate program.
• skills in documentary production;
• archival curation and museum programming.

The proficiency must be in addition to or extend the skill set that students bring with them at matriculation. Certification of this proficiency is met by two requirements:

• the completion of at least one course or an equivalent process of training;
• a practical demonstration of its acquisition.

Incoming doctoral students have the responsibility to work with their preliminary advisor to select a proficiency and prepare a plan for its attainment before they complete their prospectus and become candidates for the Ph.D. A written application on a departmental form will spell out which skill set they will acquire to meet this certification, describe the extent of their present competency, explain why it is relevant to their research, and outline how their plan enables them to gain proficiency. Incoming students will submit their proposal to the Graduate Studies Committee by October 1 of their first semester. This committee will meet to approve or suggest alternations to this proposal by November 15. At the end of the fall of the second year, the director of graduate studies will follow up and confirm with students and their dissertation directors whether the benchmarks of attainment have been fulfilled, and if not, what plan is in place to complete the requirement.

Colloquium
All students enrolled in the American studies graduate program are expected to participate throughout their graduate careers in a monthly colloquium in which faculty and M.A. and Ph.D. candidates will offer presentations of their work-in-progress. The colloquium exposes graduate students to the research interests of faculty in American studies and allied fields and more advanced students, provides opportunities for sharing discourses and ideas, and may also include visiting graduate students and faculty from international partner institutions. The colloquium is the collegial wellspring of the program, the intellectual and social center of the American Studies community. The conversation occurring there will naturally both inform and be informed by classroom work, particularly in AMST 700 and AMST 701 will help to shape, against the backdrop of individual specializations, a common discourse; and will provide a site for the formation of the American studies social and intellectual community.

Comprehensive Exams
All students, regardless of whether they enter with a B.A. or M.A., undertake their comprehensive exams in the fall of their third year. Students and faculty members will work collaboratively, with the aim of integrating the best work with the most current scholarship in particular fields. Each student will assemble a three-person examination advisory committee (usually consisting of two faculty members from the Department of American Studies and one from a related department) and in consultation with committee members will develop reading lists for three field concentrations. In two of the field concentrations the student will undertake a written exam, and in the other the student will produce a professional portfolio. Shortly after passing the written exams and submitting the portfolio, each student will undergo an oral exam covering the three concentrations. Students are expected to receive passing evaluations in all three examination areas as well as on the oral exam. Any student who fails one or more sections of the exam may repeat the failed section(s) only once.

Portfolio
Each student will prepare a professional portfolio directed toward teaching, museum, archival, public policy, digital humanities, publicly engaged humanities, or other appropriate application of the field. The portfolio will constitute the written examination in one of the student’s chosen field areas. A portfolio for teaching will include the syllabus for an upper-division course in the area of specialization, together with a bibliography and sample lesson plans. A portfolio for those interested in museum studies or public programming will include a comprehensive framework for an exhibit or similar project, together with a bibliography and sample components. Students with other areas of specialization may work with their advisors to develop plans for an appropriate portfolio of similar scope.

Teaching and Professional Development
All students will be expected to teach as part of their service requirement for financial aid. Students will most often serve as teaching assistants in undergraduate courses taught by members of the faculty. More advanced students may have the opportunity to develop and teach undergraduate courses in their areas of specialization. The teaching portfolio may provide the basis for such an independently taught course.

Doctoral Dissertation and Defense
The dissertation constitutes an original contribution to knowledge that advances the interdisciplinary understanding of American culture. It may be based upon archival research, analysis of texts and/or cultural artifacts, ethnographic research, or a combination. The student will assemble a five-person doctoral advisory committee, which must include three faculty members from the Department of American Studies. The student ordinarily completes the dissertation prospectus and refines it with the advice of the doctoral advisory committee at the end of the semester that begins with their successful completion of the comprehensive exams and the acceptance of the portfolio. The prospectus must be approved by the committee following a prospectus defense. The program is designed to enable students to complete the doctoral dissertation during the third or fourth year for the students admitted with a M.A., and the fourth or fifth year for students beginning the program with a B.A. Upon completion of the dissertation, all degree candidates must successfully defend their dissertation before their doctoral advisory committee.

M.A. in Folklore
The M.A. program in folklore balances flexibility and a focus on students’ own areas of interest with requirements designed to insure knowledge of key issues and texts in the discipline. Master’s students must complete 10 courses (30 hours). Two specific courses—Approaches to Folklore Theory (FOLK 850) and The Art of Ethnography (FOLK 860)—are required, and students must take three additional courses offered by core faculty. Students take the remainder of their courses in a variety of associated graduate programs, including American studies, anthropology, communication, English, history, music, and religious studies, or they may take advantage of the opportunity to enroll in courses at neighboring universities, particularly those offered at the Center for Documentary Studies at Duke University. Students pursuing an M.A. must compile a critical literature review at the beginning of their third semester and must complete and defend a thesis at the end of their second year of study.

Graduate Minor in American Studies
The American studies graduate minor serves students admitted in a variety of departments, including art, communications studies, English, history, and religious studies. Interdisciplinary training in the study of American culture can enhance scholarly and teaching capabilities for these students. The object of study is American culture in all its diversity, and the methodologies include historical, literary, and visual analysis as well as ethnography, sociology, economics, and political science as appropriate. To apply, contact the director of graduate studies.

The graduate minor consists of five courses, to be selected with the advice of the chair or director of graduate studies in American studies. These courses should include AMST 700 or AMST 701 and at least two other graduate courses with an AMST designation. Additional courses may be chosen from related departments. These courses must be in addition to those required for the degree in the student's major field of study.

Graduate Minor in Folklore

Students pursuing the Ph.D. in another department at UNC–Chapel Hill may qualify for a minor in folklore by completing six courses, chosen in consultation with the coordinator of the folklore program. These courses must be in addition to those required for the degree in the student's major field of study.

AMST

Advanced Undergraduate and Graduate-level Courses

AMST 410. Senior Seminar in Southern Studies. 3 Credits.
We will engage such topics as race, immigration, cultural tourism, and memory to consider conceptions of the South. Students will research a subject they find compelling and write a 20- to 25-page paper.

Gen Ed: HS, EE- Mentored Research, NA.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 420. Theories in American Studies. 3 Credits.
This course will move through prevalent theories in American studies to familiarize students with theoretical concepts and to ascertain both the advantages and pitfalls of theoretical landscapes. Students will become familiar with critical race (postcoloniality and settler-colonialism, for example), feminist, “queer” theories, historical materialism, political economy, postcolonialism, and bio-power.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 439. Meaning and Makers: Indigenous Artists and the Marketplace. 3 Credits.
This course examines how indigenous artists have negotiated, shaped, and pursued markets and venues of display ranging from “fine” art markets, galleries, and museums to popular markets associated with tourism.

Gen Ed: VP, CI, GL.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 440. American Indian Poetry. 3 Credits.
This course explores the relation of American Indian poetry and music in English to the history and culture of indigenous communities and their relation to the United States.

Gen Ed: LA.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 460. Rising Waters: Strategies for Resilience to the Challenges of Climate and the Built Environment. 3 Credits.
This service-learning seminar examines water threats to port cities and low-lying areas from sea-level rise, extreme weather, and inadequate infrastructure. The focus is on the Americas, small and barrier islands, and high hazard regions including the South East and Gulf Coast communities. The APPLES project will focus on North Carolina resilience strategies. Recommended for juniors and seniors. Permission of the instructor for first year students. Honors version available

Gen Ed: SS, CI, EE- Service Learning.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 460H. Rising Waters: Strategies for Resilience to the Challenges of Climate and the Built Environment. 3 Credits.
This service-learning seminar examines water threats to port cities and low-lying areas from sea-level rise, extreme weather, and inadequate infrastructure. The focus is on the Americas, small and barrier islands, and high hazard regions including the South East and Gulf Coast communities. The APPLES project will focus on North Carolina resilience strategies. Recommended for juniors and seniors. Permission of the instructor for first year students.

Gen Ed: SS, CI, EE- Service Learning.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 465. Documenting Communities. 3 Credits.
Covers the definition and documentation of communities within North Carolina through research, study, and field work of communities. Each student produces a documentary on a specific community. Previously offered as AMST 275. Honors version available

Gen Ed: SS, CI, EE- Field Work.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 475H. Documenting Communities. 3 Credits.
Covers the definition and documentation of communities within North Carolina through research, study, and field work of communities. Each student produces a documentary on a specific community.

Gen Ed: SS, CI, EE- Field Work.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 482. Images of the American Landscape. 3 Credits.
This course will consider how real estate speculation, transportation, suburbanization, and consumerism have shaped a landscape whose many representations in art and narrative record our ongoing struggle over cultural meaning.

Gen Ed: HS, NA.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 483. Seeing the USA: The Film Director as Public Intellectual. 3 Credits.
Examines the ways in which visual works - paintings, photographs, sculpture, architecture, film, advertising, and other images - communicate the values of American culture and raise questions about American experiences.

Gen Ed: VP NA.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 485. Folk, Self-Taught, and Outsider Arts. 3 Credits.
Drawing on American and international examples, this course addresses a body of art that occupies the borderlands of contemporary art, examining questions of authenticity, dysfunction, aesthetics, and identity.

Gen Ed: VP.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 486. Shalom Y'all: The Jewish Experience in the American South. 3 Credits.
This course explores ethnicity in the South and focuses on the history and culture of Jewish Southerners from their arrival in the Carolinas in the 17th century to the present day.

Gen Ed: HS, CI, US.

Grading status: Letter grade

Same as: JWST 486.

AMST 487. Early American Architecture and Material Life. 3 Credits.
This course explores, through lecture and discussion, the experiences of everyday life from 1600 through the early 19th century, drawing on the evidence of architecture, landscape, images, and objects.

Gen Ed: VP NA.

Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 488. No Place like Home: Material Culture of the American South. 3 Credits.
Seminar will explore the unique worlds of Southern material culture and how “artifacts” from barns to biscuits provide insight about the changing social and cultural history of the American South.

Gen Ed: VP NA.

Grading status: Letter grade

Same as: FOLK 488.
AMST 489. Writing Material Culture. 3 Credits.
A reading seminar that examines multiple critical perspectives that shape the reception and interpretation of objects, with a particular emphasis on things in American life.
Gen Ed: VP.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 493. Internship. 1-3 Credits.
Permission of the department and the instructor. Internship. Variable credit.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 6 total credits. 6 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 498. Advanced Seminar in American Studies. 3 Credits.
Graduate or junior/senior standing. Examines American civilization by studying social and cultural history, criticism, art, architecture, music, film, popular pastimes, and amusements, among other possible topics.
Gen Ed: VP, NA.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit; may be repeated in the same term for different topics; 9 total credits. 3 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 510. Federal Indian Law and Policy. 3 Credits.
This course gives an introduction to the American government’s law and policy concerning tribal nations and tribal peoples. We examine a number of legal and political interactions to determine how the United States has answered the “Indian problem” throughout its history and the status of tribal peoples and nations today.
Gen Ed: HS, US.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 511. American Indians and American Law. 3 Credits.
This course explores the history of Native interaction with the American legal system in order to understand how the law affects Native peoples and others today. Students are encouraged (but not required) to take AMST 510 before enrolling in this course.
Gen Ed: HS, US.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 512. Race and American Law. 3 Credits.
This class will explore the intersection between race and American law, both in a historical and contemporary context. It will ask how both of these major social forces have informed and defined each other and what that means for how we think about race and law today.
Gen Ed: US.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 641. Communicating Water Challenges of Climate Change with the Visual and Performing Arts. 3 Credits.
Climate change means water challenges that threaten people, property, and the existence of nation states. Severe precipitation events from warmer air holding more water, sea-level rise, and more intense hurricanes, mean flooding, water quality, and freshwater issues for more than half the world’s population. Drought, resulting wildfires, and the availability of life-sustaining water is a problem in others. The visual and performing arts are used to explore more effective ways to communicate this growing crisis.
Gen Ed: CI, US.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 671. Introduction to Public History. 3 Credits.
Introduces the theory, politics, and practice of historical work conducted in public venues (museums, historic sites, national parks, government agencies, archives), directed at public audiences, or addressed to public issues.
Gen Ed: HS, EE: Mentored Research, NA.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: HIST 671.

AMST 685. Literature of the Americas. 3 Credits.
Multidisciplinary examination of texts and other media of the Americas, in English and Spanish, from a variety of genres. Two years of college-level Spanish or the equivalent strongly recommended.
Gen Ed: LA, NA.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: ENGL 685, CMPL 685.

AMST 691H. Honors in American Studies. 3 Credits.
Directed independent research leading to the preparation of an honors thesis and an oral examination on the thesis. Required of candidates for graduation with honors in American studies who enroll in the class once permission to pursue honors is granted.
Gen Ed: EE: Mentored Research.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 692H. Honors in American Studies. 3 Credits.
Directed independent research leading to the preparation of an honors thesis and an oral examination on the thesis. Required of candidates for graduation with honors in American studies who enroll in the class once permission to pursue honors is granted.
Gen Ed: EE: Mentored Research.
Grading status: Letter grade.

Graduate-level Courses

AMST 700. The History and Practices of American Studies. 3 Credits.
This course will acquaint students with the texts, contexts, issues, and controversies in American Studies as a field of study. It is required for most American studies graduate students and open to graduate students in other departments.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 701. Interdisciplinary Research Methods. 3 Credits.
This course will focus on techniques of American studies investigation. Various faculty members will make presentations highlighting approaches including Southern studies, American Indian studies, Material Culture studies, and new media.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 702. Readings in American Studies. 3 Credits.
This course takes a specific topic to explore in depth, and through this investigation critically examines contending perspectives on the field. Topics will change depending on faculty interest.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 714. Incarceration in America. 3 Credits.
This course explores the theoretical underpinnings, history, and contemporary controversies around incarceration in the United States. It begins by exploring early articulations of the need for imprisonment as punishment, examines how that history unfolded in the 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries, and engages with contemporary debates about mass incarceration and its impacts on American communities.
Grading status: Letter grade.
AMST 715. Community Histories and Public Humanities. 3 Credits.
Community Histories and Public Humanities explores how communities have been, are, and might be preserved, documented, represented, and remembered. Focuses on the use of digitized primary sources and tools to engage communities in public history/humanities initiatives using interdisciplinary approaches informed by American Studies and Folklore. Participants have opportunity to work on ongoing community history/archiving projects. Project-based work is supported by reading in memory studies, representation, sites of trauma, community archiving, and oral history.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 6 total credits. 2 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 720. Fugitive Philosophies: The Intellectual Tradition of Forced Movers. 3 Credits.
Seminar traces the intellectual tradition of refugees, migrants, and forced movers transiting the United States. Beginning in the 19th century and progressing to the 21st century, we will examine the works of anticolonial thinkers, Caribbean philosophers, journalists of the African American and Latinx traditions, labor movement musicians, activists in the Long Civil Rights Movement, Marxist organizers, and social and political reformers. We analyze how their dislocations and multi-sited lives have created spaces for philosophical interventions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 775. Graduate Seminar in Food Studies: Interdisciplinary Research. 3 Credits.
This class exposes graduate students to interdisciplinary food studies research in the humanities. We use farm records, cookbooks, novels, poetry, photographs, songs, documentaries, and oral histories to investigate American food communities. We are not aiming to define food studies, but are looking at its questions, problems, theories, and methods.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 795. Digital Humanities Field Experience. 1-3 Credits.
An opportunity for students to translate theory into practice as they make meaningful contributions to digital humanities projects. Field experience can be tailored to fit the intellectual and professional needs of individual students, who may choose to work on projects in cultural heritage institutions or within academic departments on campus.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 6 total credits. 2 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 820. Critical Ethnic Studies (CES): New Perspectives. 3 Credits.
This course is devised to provide graduate students interested in theoretical interdisciplinary work with a sense of prevailing questions and critiques important to CES. CES takes on the more difficult questions of intersectional work, as it thinks through sovereignty and emancipation, identity and ontology, place, space and temporality. Each iteration of the course works itself through new perspectives in the field, challenging students to create new methodologies for their own work.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 840. Digital Humanities/Digital American Studies. 3 Credits.
This course, explores the application of digital technologies to the materials, questions, and practices of humanities scholarship, particularly as related to enduring topics in American Studies scholarship and community engagement. Students will work on group digital history projects in collaboration with local cultural heritage organizations.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 850. Digital Humanities Practicum. 3 Credits.
This practicum blends graduate seminar discussions with hands-on training in the digital humanities. Students will work in the Digital Innovation Lab, contributing to real-life projects while developing their own professional development goals. Students will emerge with a deeper understanding of and experience with digital humanities approaches, practices, and issues.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 6 total credits. 2 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 878. Readings in Native American History. 3 Credits.
Readings in and discussions of the major works in Native American history.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: HIST 878

AMST 880. American Film and Media History. 3 Credits.
Topically focused examination of social and cultural aspects of cinema and media history in the United States, including cinema/media audiences, reception, and historiography.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 890. Seminar in American Studies. 3 Credits.
Graduate seminar exploring selected topics in the theory and practice of American Studies.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 12 total credits. 4 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 895. Directed Readings. 3 Credits.
Permission of the instructor. Independent reading programs for graduate students.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit. 12 total credits. 4 total completions.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 900. Directed Studies. 0.5-15 Credits.
Permission of the instructor. Topics and credit hours vary according to the needs and interests of the individual student and the professor supervising the research project.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 901. M.A. Research Seminar. 3 Credits.
Students will be introduced to issues of project design, develop a prospectus for the M.A. capstone project, work with an advisor, and prepare full drafts of their projects.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 902. Ph.D. Research Seminar. 3 Credits.
A review of current scholarship in American Studies, with the aim of creating the final reading list for the comprehensive exams, and an introduction to dissertation design.
Grading status: Letter grade.
AMST 903. Comprehensive Exams and Dissertation Design. 3 Credits.
This is the third and final course in a required sequence for PhD students in the Department of American Studies. It is intended to scaffold you into "ABD" status: the concentrated period of research and writing that will lead to the completion of a dissertation. It does so first by creating a community of common labor around studying for comprehensive exams, and then by support you through the dissertation proposal and prospectus writing process. Restricted to Graduate Students only.
Requisites: Prerequisites, AMST 700, 701 and 901.
Grading status: Letter grade.

AMST 948. Research in Native American History. 3 Credits.
This course introduces graduate students to research methods in Native American history, including the methodology of ethnohistory and the techniques of compiling a source base, taking notes, and outlining.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: HIST 948.

AMST 992. Master's (Non-Thesis). 3 Credits.
Non-Thesis Option
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit.

AMST 993. Master's Research and Thesis. 3 Credits.
Master's Thesis
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit.

AMST 994. Doctoral Research and Dissertation. 3 Credits.
Individual work on the doctoral dissertation, pursued under the supervision of the Ph.D. advisor.
Repeat rules: May be repeated for credit.

FOLK
Advanced Undergraduate and Graduate-level Courses

FOLK 424. Ritual, Festival, and Public Culture. 3 Credits.
This course explores rituals, festivals, and public cultural performances as forms of complex, collective, embodied creative expression. As sites of popular celebration, conflict resolution, identity definition, and social exchange, they provide rich texts for folkloristic study. We consider how local and global forces both sustain and challenge these forms.
Gen Ed: SS, EE- Field Work.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: ANTH 424.

FOLK 428. Religion and Anthropology. 3 Credits.
Religion studied anthropologically as a cultural, social, and psychological phenomenon in the works of classical and contemporary social thought. Honors version available
Gen Ed: SS.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: ANTH 428, RELI 428.

FOLK 428H. Religion and Anthropology. 3 Credits.
Religion studied anthropologically as a cultural, social, and psychological phenomenon in the works of classical and contemporary social thought.
Gen Ed: SS.
Grading status: Letter grade
Same as: ANTH 428H, RELI 428H.

FOLK 429. Culture and Power in Southeast Asia. 3 Credits.
