The principal goal of the study of philosophy is to enable students to think more clearly, deeply, and appreciatively about themselves and their world. Study of philosophy enhances analytical, critical, and interpretive capacities that are applicable to any subject matter in almost any context. It provides many opportunities for expressing oneself, for reflecting on questions that human beings have pondered for millennia, for exchanging reasoned beliefs and engaging in focused debate, and for learning how to come to terms with problems for which there are no easy answers. A good philosophical education also helps to prepare students for responsible and intelligent participation in political and community affairs.

History of philosophy
Courses above 100 with a second digit of one or two (e.g., PHIL 110, PHIL 210, PHIL 220)

Metaphysics, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and philosophy of language Courses above 100 with a second digit of three or four (e.g., PHIL 134, PHIL 230, PHIL 340)

Logic and philosophy of science
Courses above 100 with a second digit of five (e.g., PHIL 150, PHIL 155, PHIL 355)

Value theory
Courses above 100 with a second digit of six, seven, or eight (e.g., PHIL 160, PHIL 275, PHIL 381)

Total Hours 27

Philosophy (PHIL) course descriptions (http://catalog.unc.edu/undergraduate/departments/philosophy/#coursestext).

PHIL 155 (http://catalog.unc.edu/search/?search=PHIL155) is recommended for all students who major or minor in philosophy.

Please note that First Year Seminars (http://fys.unc.edu) is automatically required for all students who major or minor in philosophy.

Within the framework of the major, students may elect to take philosophy courses geared toward prelaw. Inquiries about prelaw advising may be sent to the department’s director of undergraduate studies, PHIL 390 (http://catalog.unc.edu/search/?search=PHIL390) may count toward one of the four distribution areas.

Within the framework of the major, students may elect to take philosophy courses geared toward prelaw. Inquiries about prelaw advising may be sent to the department’s director of undergraduate studies. Although we are not in a position to offer law career (including career prep) or LSAT advice, the director of undergraduate studies is available to provide academic advising and discuss prelaw course information. Further details may be found on the Department of Philosophy's Web site (https://philosophy.unc.edu/undergraduate/advising/pre-law).
